

BROADWAY CULTURED

14 Must-See Art Shows to Catch While You're in San Francisco for FOG

From groundbreaking digital paintings to Pueblo muscle cars, make time in your trip to stop by these gallery and museum exhibitions.

Sky Hopinka, Still from Lore, 2019. Image courtesy of SLASH.

"Sonic Transmissions" by Sky Hopinka

Where: SLASH

When: Through April 18

Why It's Worth a Look: Sky Hopinka (Ho-Chunk Nation/Pechanga Band of Luiseño Indians) is a videographer and musician, merging archival footage with home videos and language lessons. He primarily circles Indigenous life in the present, rather than the past. This show spans a tribute to Native poet Diana Burns, Irish and South American folk songs, and powwows.

Know Before You Go: Hopinka's scholarship on Indigenous life extends beyond art; for years he taught chinuk wawa, a language native to the Lower Columbia River Basin, where he's from.